10th International Conference

Organization, Technology and Management in Construction

Šibenik, 07.-10. September 2011
Croatia

First Announcement and Call for Papers

We are very pleased to inform you that 10th International OTMC Conference will take place in Croatia in the early September. The Conference has a long tradition, since 1981, when we organized our first OTMC conference.
We invite you to join us and take part in our 30 years jubilee and, with your contributions to the conference program, make this event even more successful.

Conference Themes

The conference themes are following:

Construction Technologies and Materials
Construction Planning and Organization
Project Management
Construction Economy
Ecology, Environment Protection
Health and Safety in Construction
Construction law and Regulations
Ph.D. and Young Crew session

The papers should be oriented to present research results, best practices, case studies, problem discussion or overview.

All papers will be published in the Conference Proceedings.

The selected best ranked papers during the review process (including the one from young researchers) will be published in the special issue of OTMC journal.

Academic Forum

Beside the conference themes a half day forum will be organized about the key trends, innovations and best practices in the education process. Academics are invited to submit papers or PPT presentation about the educational process within the topics of the conference.
The main goal is to exchange information among the academics from Central and South East Europe regions. The information about the concepts, learning objectives, methodology, curricula and syllabuses within the organization, technology and management are welcome from respective universities. An important aspect of the discussions will be the adjustments of curricula to the needs of the construction industries of countries from the regions.

Ph.D. and Young Crew session

The main objective of this session is to draw on insights and contributions from researches from Ph.D. students who are in pursuit for new knowledge in the area of construction and project management. This OTMC doctoral session will thus bring together doctoral students, researchers and practitioners interested in sharing their knowledge of the use of theories in project and construction management research.The students are welcome to submit papers and, if selected, PPT presentation about their researches. This session is particularly interested in the latest research results and furthering the development of innovative, knowledge-based models and tools, as well as conceptual frameworks for dealing with present problems in organization, technology and management in construction. It is refreshing to note that the editor-in-chief of the Organization, Technology & Management: An International Journal, Professor Mladen Radujković will be opening the workshop with an address of current trends in research in project management. Apart from the keynote, the workshop will be a compilation of eight papers, which have been produced by doctoral candidates who are undertaking research projects. Besides doctoral students, all interested in pursuing a Ph.D. are welcome to attend.

Who should attend

It is our aim to bring together academics, scientists and eminent experts from the field of organization, technology and management in construction from universities, institutes and enterprises of Central Europe and South Europe regions.

Conference languages

The languages of the Conference will be English. The Conference Proceedings will be published in English.

Conference venue

The Conference will take place in Solaris Resort close to Šibenik city in the middle Dalmatia. The Solaris resort is well known as attractive conference and tourist destination. For more details about the Solaris resort please visit www.solaris.hr or contact andrea.zec@globtour.hr OTMC2011@globtur.hr
